Since 2012, NSW Health has implemented a range of workforce initiatives to position the future health workforce to be fit-for-purpose

To ensure the workforce can deliver high quality care to those in need, NSW Health has already completed a range of successful initiatives outlined in the Health Professionals Workforce Plan 2012–2022 (HPWP).

The HPWP has facilitated multiple system-wide improvements that position the future health workforce to be fit-for-purpose. Key achievement areas and their benefits include:

- Implementation of state-wide systems and dashboards to provide improved visibility on the distribution and utilisation of the workforce
- Implemented learning facilities to encourage tailored and continuous learning
- Introduced new positions to build greater flexibility and responsiveness into our workforce
- Rolled out ‘Respecting the Difference’ cultural training framework to improve system-wide understanding of the unique needs of Aboriginal health workforces and communities
- Delivered the people management skills program to uplift the way in which our leaders engage our workforce.

These achievements provide the building blocks for the new Health Workforce Plan 2022–2032.

“Future Health” sets a vision for the future of the health system in NSW and requires a new workforce plan to guide the next phase of workforce development.

NSW Health is the largest public health system in Australia and delivers diverse, high quality services to thousands of people each day, in line with its vision of:

 “A sustainable health system that delivers outcomes that matter most to patients and the community, is personalised, invests in wellness and is digitally enabled.”

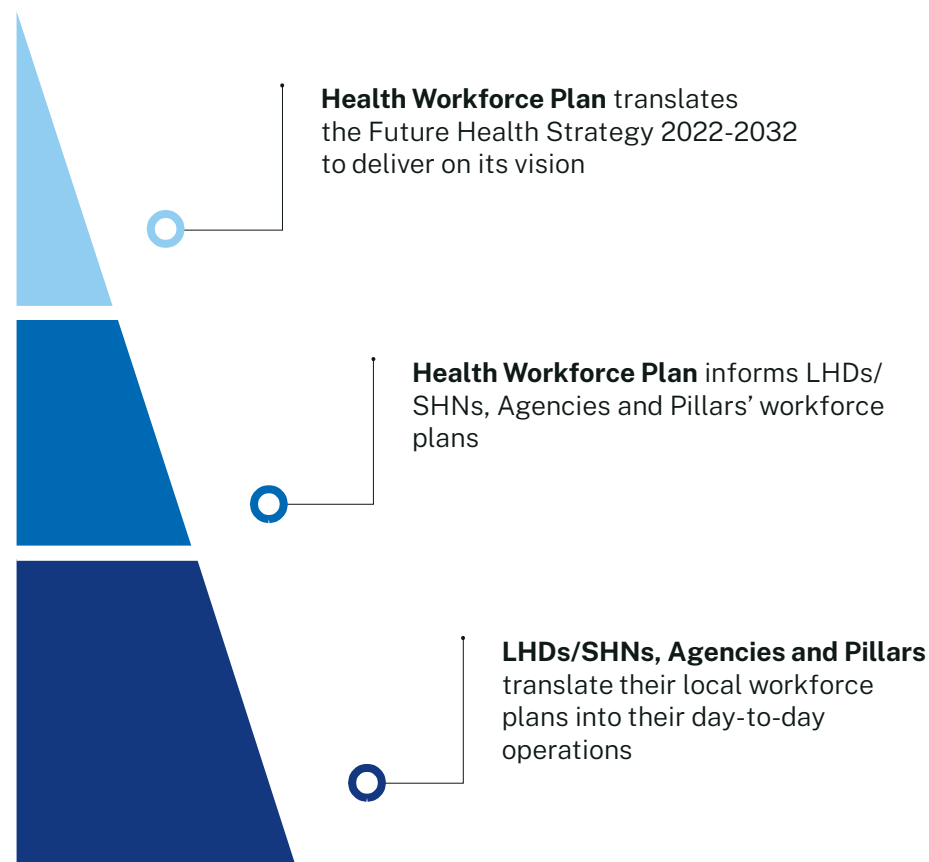

Future Health has been developed as the roadmap for our health system to achieve NSW Health’s vision. It builds on the previous State Health Plan: Towards 2021, and will help to guide our next decade of care in NSW while adapting to and addressing the demands and challenges facing our system.

A key strategic outcome of Future Health is a fit-for-purpose workforce with the capabilities to deliver the vision:

 Our staff are engaged and well supported: Our people are supported to deliver safe, reliable, person-centred care driving the best outcomes and experiences.

This NSW Health Workforce Plan 2022-2032 provides a delivery framework to guide the implementation of the workforce-related strategies across the health system.

Workforce, talent and culture strategies have supported achievement of the NSW Health vision to date, and will inform the Health Workforce Plan

Three Horizons

Our people are supported to deliver safe, reliable, person-centred care driving the best outcomes and experiences

The vision for NSW Health Workforce will be realised over the next 10 years through collaborations across the system between the Ministry, LHDs/SHNs, Pillars and in partnership with education providers and other NSW agencies. To achieve the Plan's intent, actions will be set out across three horizons for the short term/immediate 3 years, medium term/midway point and longer term.

To achieve the Plan's intent, actions will be set out across three horizons for the short term/immediate 3 years, medium term/midway point and longer term.

System wide opportunities to unlock potential

NSW Health workforce leaders and advocates have agreed that there are four key opportunities to address that will unlock the potential of the future health workforce. Addressing and 'unlocking' these will open the doors for substantial progress across all of the priorities in this plan.

- Improve access and accuracy of state-wide workforce data to enable evidence-based and service workforce planning
- Build an agile virtual health workforce capable of delivering quality care across NSW
- Modernise employment arrangements to enable delivery of new care models and new ways of working
- Design, pilot, and scale best-practice multidisciplinary models for better patient outcomes across a range of settings

These opportunities are infused into the priorities and actions identified for Horizon 1. Work that commences in Horizon 1 to unlock these opportunities, will be carried through to Horizon 2 and 3 to ensure we achieve the NSW Health workforce vision.

Developing Actions in Horizons 2 and 3

The Plan will require annual reporting against the priorities and planned activities outlined in the plan. This will support developing actions in Horizons 2 and 3. Each horizon will have actions allocated across a 3 year cycle. Each cycle will be reviewed in consultation with stakeholders across the system, and new actions will be identified. The review will reflect successes, challenges and drivers for change. In this way, the plan remains responsive and contemporary in a changing landscape.

NSW Health Workforce Plan

HPWP 2012-2022

Solid Foundations

Establishing robust workforce planning approaches, building networks and partnerships to develop solid foundations for building a fit-for-purpose workforce.

Building horizons scanning approaches, strengthening data analytics, and growing the workforce capability through scholarships, training and mentorship.

Horizon 1

Years 1-3

Develop and Embed

Launching the new workforce vision.

Developing new ways of working to create a strong platform for actions to achieve vision 2032. Horizon 1 will be characterised by research, pilots and trials and embedding evidence-based approaches for planning. Actions will focus on workplace culture, leadership and innovation.

Horizon 2

Years 4-7

Strengthen and Support

Leverage developments in Horizon 1 to extend successes and monitor for opportunity to refine and refocus.

Horizon 2 will be characterised by building on mechanisms supporting innovation, strengthening culture, and workplace support.

Refresh actions to meet contemporary issues and demands.

Horizon 3

Years 8-10

Review, Refresh and Renew

Review and evaluate actions against Horizons 1 and 2.

Embed programs and approaches that achieve ROI.

As new drivers impacting on workforces emerge, there will be a focus on tailoring existing programs to meet future needs and renewal of programs and approaches required for a future focus.

Continual focus on unlocking potential

NSW Health Workforce Plan 2022-2032

NSW Health has developed its Workforce Plan to support the state’s healthcare system as it addresses long-term trends and short-term challenges that have emerged as a result of the recent significant global events, including the COVID-19 pandemic. This Plan describes the Ministry’s workforce vision and its urgent system priorities to achieve the workforce vision. We have worked closely with stakeholders to identify the outcomes that are critical to our success.

Vision
Our people are supported to deliver safe, reliable, person-centred care driving the best outcomes and experiences
Priorities What are the areas of focus?	Build positive work environments that bring out the best in everyone	Strengthen diversity in our workforce and decision-making	Empower staff to work to their full potential around the future care needs	Equip our people with the skills and capabilities to be an agile, responsive workforce	Attract and retain skilled people who put patients first	Unlock the ingenuity of our staff to build work practices for the future
Outcomes What are the outcomes we are seeking to achieve for the whole health system?	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Strong leadership embedded across the system to sustain a progressive, inclusive, safe, healthy workplace</li> <li>Wellbeing and self-care are organisational priorities</li> <li>Our workplaces provide fair opportunities for all staff and a systemic approach to talent management</li> <li>Culture change is supported and sustained by high employee engagement</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>We have a diverse workforce at all levels of the system that reflects the community we serve</li> <li>Our Aboriginal health workforce is valued and respected for the contribution they bring</li> <li>We have a balance of women in senior leadership and equity</li> <li>Our CALD workforce and those with disabilities are supported to ensure they can do their best work</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Expanded scopes of practice for clinicians suit the local community need</li> <li>We have consistent use and scope of multidisciplinary teams across the system</li> <li>Better patient outcomes derived from existing, developing and new ways of working are showcased</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>We have ongoing opportunities to learn and upskill, so our workforce are fit-for-purpose for now and the future</li> <li>New technological skills, data capabilities, treatment advances and virtual care delivery are embedded into training pathways</li> <li>Students entering the workforce are job-ready</li> <li>We have mature partnerships with education providers to develop health career pipelines aligned with plans</li> <li>We focus on social determinants of health and preventative care</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>There is a pipeline of future-ready workforces enabled by accessible and accurate state-wide workforce data</li> <li>Our leaders are abreast of the factors driving future changes in workforce models and ready for gaps and emerging disruptions</li> <li>We have closed workforce gaps in rural and remote areas in collaboration with local stakeholders</li> <li>We use cross sector workforce planning to better understand opportunities in rural areas</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Our modern employment arrangements enable new care models and new ways of working aligned to worker and patient preferences</li> <li>Our workforce works flexibly in terms of hours or location and can respond in an agile way during times of crisis, e.g. surge demand</li> </ul>

Governance of the Health Workforce Plan 2022-2032 is designed to enable agile implementation at the local level while ensuring objectives are achieved

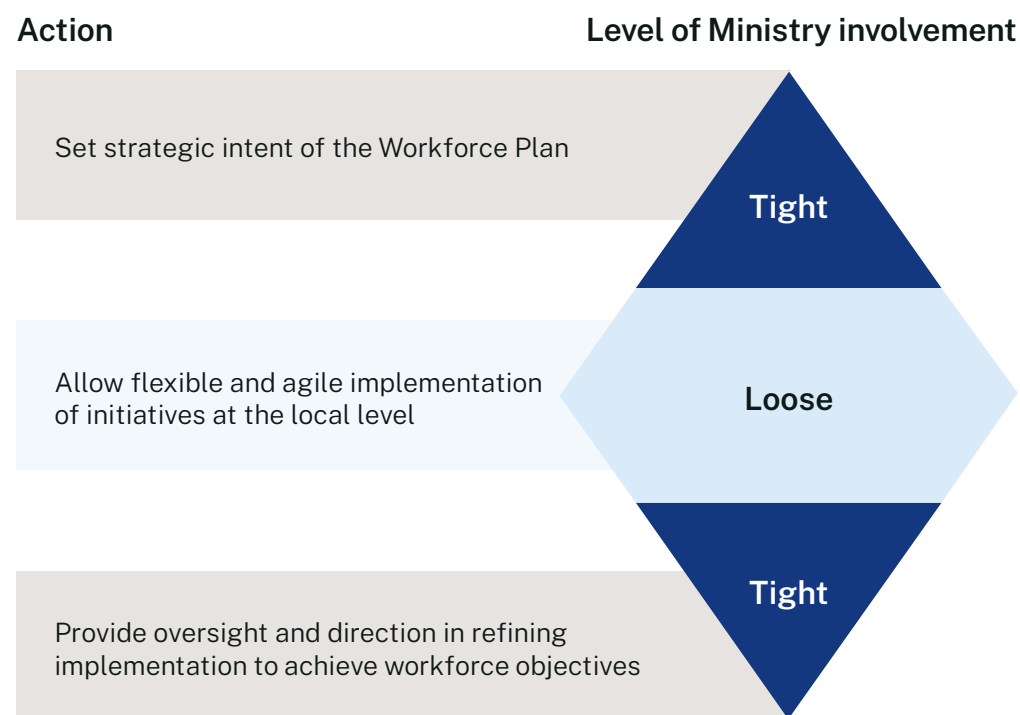

This Plan articulates NSW Health’s workforce objectives and describes the key activities under delivery Horizon One (2022-2024). Specific actions to deliver each activity and measures of success will be developed to support implementation.

It is NSW Health’s intent to allow flexible and agile implementation of initiatives at the local level and each agency to determine the best approach to roll-out each initiative. This will enable health services to focus their resources on the specific and nuanced needs of their local workforce and communities and prioritise actions which will make the most impact for their patients. Examples of where this flexibility is critical to successful implementation is in rural and remote workforces and small but critical workforces.

Further, this Plan is not intended to be a static document. NSW Health will continue to monitor the macro challenges identified such as population health needs, technological advancements, and industry growth to inform the timing of initiatives and ensure actions respond to NSW’s broader health context. Once Horizon One is completed, the Plan will be reviewed and further actions may be designed.

Regular reporting to a Workforce Working Group will provide a structured assessment of progress towards the workforce objectives. This process will enable the Working Group to identify partnership opportunities across the organisation and where a change or additional focus may be required.
