POLICY DIRECTIVE

Open Disclosure

POLICY STATEMENT

NSW Health is committed to ensuring open and timely discussions occur between NSW Health Services and patients and support persons following an incident by implementing open disclosure processes.

SUMMARY OF POLICY REQUIREMENTS

Open disclosure must occur whenever a patient has been harmed. Open disclosure is an open discussion with the patient and/ or their support person(s) about a patient safety incident which could have resulted in or did result in harm to that patient while they were receiving health care.

Clinician disclosure is the first stage of open disclosure and must be undertaken within 24 hours of incident identification. Formal open disclosure is the second stage of open disclosure and is undertaken as required, however may be needed for any incident of any level of harm.

NSW Health Services must have appropriate governance and implementation frameworks to ensure that open disclosure roles, responsibilities and functions are met.

The practice of open disclosure involves:

- Acknowledgement of an incident to the patient and/ or support person within 24 hours of incident identification. This includes recognising the significance of the incident to the patient.
- Truthful, clear and timely communications on an ongoing basis as required.
- An apology to the patient and/ or support person, including the words “I am sorry” or “we are sorry”.
- Ongoing care and support to patients and/ or support persons that is responsive to their needs and expectations, for as long as is required.
- Support to staff which is responsive to their needs and expectations.
- An integrated approach to improving patient safety in which open disclosure is linked with clinical and corporate governance, incident reporting, risk management, consumer feedback/ complaints management and quality improvement policies and processes.

This includes evaluation of the process by patients, carers and families, and staff, accountability for learning from incidents and evidence of systems improvement.

- Multidisciplinary involvement in the open disclosure process.

1. BACKGROUND

Open disclosure is an open discussion with the patient (and/ or their support person(s)) about a patient safety incident; and aims to ensure that open, honest, empathic and timely discussions occur between the NSW Health Service and patients and their support person(s) following an incident. It is based on principles in the Australian Open Disclosure Framework and is integral to incident management in NSW Health.

This Policy Directive should be read in conjunction with the Clinical Excellence Commission's Open Disclosure Handbook.

1.1. About this document

This Policy Directive sets out open disclosure requirements for NSW Health Services. It defines when open disclosure is required, describes the open disclosure process and outlines the key steps involved. The Clinical Excellence Commission (CEC) Open Disclosure website has resources to support implementation.

The open disclosure process relates to patient safety incidents; however, this process can be used in other areas as applicable. It is a continuous process that commences with clinician disclosure and may progress to formal open disclosure.

3. THE OPEN DISCLOSURE PROCESS

Open disclosure is an open discussion with the patient (and/ or their support person(s)) about a patient safety incident which could have resulted in or did result in harm to that patient while they were receiving health care. It is a continuous process that consists of clinician disclosure and, if required, formal open disclosure. The essential elements of open disclosure are:

- an apology
- a factual explanation of what happened
- an opportunity for the patient to relate their experience
- a discussion of the potential consequences
- an explanation of the steps being taken to manage the event and prevent recurrence.

Open disclosure must be managed to completion irrespective of other circumstances occurring at the same time, such as the commencement of Health Care Complaints Commission, coronial or legal proceedings. If needed, NSW Health Services may seek advice from the NSW Ministry of Health, Legal and Regulatory Services Branch (<mailto:nsw-legalmail@health.nsw.gov.au>) or facility lawyers.

3.1. When to disclose

Open disclosure must occur whenever a patient has been harmed.

Disclosure is discretionary in the case of a near miss, being an incident that did not reach the patient and/ or in which there is a potential for harm from ongoing risk. Factors to consider are timeliness and/ or whether it is felt the patient would benefit from knowing.

3.2. When to progress to formal open disclosure

Formal open disclosure involves multidisciplinary discussions with the patient and their support person and the senior clinical leaders and/ or hospital executive. The open disclosure process may progress to formal open disclosure for any incident as determined by the Director of Clinical Governance and/ or the Facility/ Operations/ Service Manager and/ or the patient and/ or their support person. Formal open disclosure must be coordinated by the NSW Health Service in a manner that ensures clarity and reduces the risk of confusion for patients and/ or their support persons.

The NSW Health Policy Directive Incident Management (PD2020\_047) describes formal open disclosure for Harm Score 1 incidents and recommends formal open disclosure for Harm Score 2 incidents.

The NSW Health Service is to inform patients and/ or their families they should be aware that formal open disclosure can progress at a future date if there is a change in circumstances.

Formal open disclosure may be considered inappropriate when:

- the patient and/ or their support person declines the offer to meet
- the patient is incapacitated or has died and there is no chosen support person
- the chosen support person is unavailable (in which case, rescheduling should be offered).

3.3. Risk management

NSW Health Services must operate within a risk management framework. In preparation for an open disclosure, risks are to be assessed in relation to the patient and their support person, NSW Health staff and the NSW Health Service, including risk of media exposure or litigation. For some incidents, risk management is undertaken as part of a preliminary risk assessment as per the NSW Health Policy Directive Incident Management (PD2020\_047).

3.4. Relationship to incident management

The practice of open disclosure is integral to managing an incident. The NSW Health Policy Directive Incident Management (PD2020\_047) describes the type of review to be undertaken based on incident rating (Harm Score) and outlines when to share information with the patient, carer and/ or family via open disclosure. The open disclosure process can be used regardless of the Harm Score.

3.4.1. Dedicated family contact

The dedicated family contact is a staff member assigned as the primary contact for the patient, carer and/ or family for a serious adverse event review and beyond. The dedicated family contact has a critical role in establishing rapport, credibility and trust with the family.

A dedicated family contact may also be assigned to assist in response to consumer feedback, or for all formal open disclosure processes regardless of the incident Harm Score. They liaise between the patient, carer and/ or family, review team and open disclosure team.

The NSW Health Policy Directive Incident Management (PD2020\_047) describes the dedicated family contact role in more detail.

3.4.2. Privileged processes

Incident review findings are essential to the information provided to the patient and their support person during formal open disclosure. For all reportable incidents (clinical Harm Score 1 incidents), the NSW Health Service undertakes a preliminary risk assessment and serious adverse event review. These processes are privileged under Part 2A of the Health Administration Act 1982 (NSW). The NSW Health Policy Directive Incident Management (PD2020\_047) describes restrictions on information that can be released during open disclosure discussions.

In addition to the statutory privilege above (in relation to serious adverse event reviews [SAERs]), client legal privilege can protect certain documents or communications from disclosure. Documents specifically created or communications made, in confidence for the dominant purpose of obtaining legal advice regarding an incident, or for use in legal proceedings (including civil claims for compensation; coronial inquest hearings; and prosecutions before a disciplinary body) cannot be disclosed.

Any minutes taken during open disclosure discussions are not privileged.

3.4.3. When more than one organisation is involved

When an incident occurs across NSW Health Service boundaries (such as a local health district and a state-wide service) or sectors (such as public and private healthcare facilities), open disclosure is managed through:

- the involvement of each organisation, as appropriate
- the assignment of a lead organisation, as appropriate
- the resolution of issues via Directors of Clinical Governance and/ or a senior representative from another sector
- the escalation of issues that cannot be resolved to the Director Patient Safety, Clinical Excellence Commission.

3.5. Where staff participating in open disclosure may seek advice or support

Staff who are participating in or who are leading clinician or formal open disclosure processes may seek individual or process guidance from the following sources:

- a NSW Health Service Open Disclosure Advisor (contact your local Clinical Governance Unit)
- Employee Assistance Program
- medical defence organisations or professional indemnity insurers
- professional associations and/ or unions
- the local Clinical Governance Unit.

3.6. Key steps

3.6.1. Assess the level of open disclosure response required

The open disclosure process may conclude with clinician disclosure progress to formal open disclosure, in agreement with the patient and/ or support person.

3.6.2. Stage 1: Clinician disclosure

Inform the patient and/ or support person as soon as possible following an incident. Clinician disclosure is to take place within 24 hours of incident identification.

Prepare for the discussion with the patient and/ or support person. Consider the preferences of the patient/ family/ carer, culture, language and the needs of people with a disability.

Undertake clinician disclosure with the patient and/ or support person by:

- acknowledging the incident and its impact on the patient
- explaining the cause of the incident if it is known
- apologising, including the words “I am sorry” or “we are sorry”
- listening to the patient and/ or support person
- documenting that open disclosure has occurred in the patient’s health care record
- agreeing on a plan for care which may include ongoing support or discussions such as formal open disclosure. Reimbursement of out-of-pocket expenses incurred as a direct result of an incident may be offered at this time (see Section 3.8 Out of pocket expenses).

3.6.3. Stage 2: Progress to formal open disclosure as required

Refer also to Section 3.2 When to progress to formal open disclosure.

Prepare for the formal open disclosure discussion by:

- assigning a staff member to coordinate open disclosure
- forming an open disclosure team including a senior staff member experienced in open disclosure to lead the discussions with the patient and/ or support person.
- preparing for specific circumstances. Consider culture (such as the NSW Health Guideline Communicating Positively: A Guide to Appropriate Aboriginal Terminology (GL2019_008)), language, the needs of people with a disability, and access such as using a virtual meeting platform
- contacting an Open Disclosure Advisor to provide support (if they are not a member of the open disclosure team)
- gathering information to date about the incident and previous discussions with the patient and/ or support person
- contacting the patient and/ or support person (this can be via the staff member assigned as the dedicated family contact if there is one) to arrange a meeting
- ensuring access needs. For a virtual meeting, refer to the NSW Health NSW Virtual Care Strategy or the Agency for Clinical Innovation Virtual care in practice guide
- preparing information for the patient and/ or support person in a suitable format.

Undertake the formal open disclosure discussion with the patient and/ or support person and the open disclosure team by:

- reacknowledging the incident and its impact on the patient
- reaffirming an apology, including the words “I am sorry” or “we are sorry”
- explaining the formal open disclosure process
- reaffirming or expanding on previous explanations of the incident

- sharing findings available to date and ensuring privilege is maintained (if information is from a privileged process such as preliminary risk assessment or serious adverse event review)
- acknowledging the limitations (if any) on information that can be provided
- listening to the patient and/ or support person's experiences and concerns
- ensuring the discussion is based on known facts and avoids speculation, attribution of blame or denial of responsibility
- agreeing on a plan for care which may include ongoing support or discussions. Reimbursement of out-of-pocket expenses may be offered at this time if this has not been done previously.

3.6.4. Follow up activities

After the formal open disclosure discussion, the NSW Health Service must:

- Coordinate any ongoing discussions between the patient and/ or support person and the open disclosure team leader (via the dedicated family contact, if there is one).
- Ensure all agreed actions are completed.
- Arrange any meeting(s) for open disclosure team review and discussion.
- Share the review findings as appropriate when they are available with a summary of factors that caused or contributed to the incident and any recommended actions.
- Liaise, as needed, with the manager responsible for insurable risk to coordinate an offer of reimbursement for out-of-pocket expenses.

3.6.5. Finalise formal open disclosure

After completion of formal open disclosure, the NSW Health Service must:

- Provide the patient and/ or support person with contact details for follow-up including progress of recommendations.
- Provide a summary of the open disclosure meetings and agreed outcomes to the patient and/ or their support person.
- Complete documentation of the open disclosure. This is to include a progress note in the patient's health records that open disclosure has taken place and the related identification number from the incident management system and/ or a reference to the secure open disclosure file, if kept separately.

3.7. Record management

If open disclosure is initiated, the clinician responsible for the patient's care must record that clinician disclosure has occurred in the patient's health care record. When the incident is notified in the incident management system, the notifier must document the unique identification number in the health record.

Open disclosure meetings with the patient and/ or support person are to be noted in the incident management system.

Formal open disclosure records (such as meeting records, outcomes, reimbursement of out-of-pocket expenses) are to be kept together in a secure location.

3.8. Out of pocket expenses

Open disclosure is most effective if coupled with restorative action where appropriate. Offering to reimburse out-of-pocket expenses sends a strong signal of sincerity, however such an offer does not imply responsibility or liability. They are made at the discretion of the NSW Health Service on a case-by-case basis.

Expenses must be incurred as a direct result of an incident, for example accommodation, meals, travel and childcare. The NSW Health Service can claim some expenses back from the Treasury Managed Fund (TMF). If the amount is likely to exceed $5000, the NSW Health Service must contact its manager responsible for insurable risk who is to liaise with TMF prior to any agreement for reimbursement with the patient, carer and/ or family.

For significant reimbursement requests by the patient, carer or family, the NSW Health Service is to ask for a written request to refer on to TMF.

3.9. Specific circumstances

Advice must be sought from the Director of Clinical Governance and/ or an Open Disclosure Advisor when open disclosure involves:

- children and young people, patients with a mental health condition, patients with cognitive impairment
- patients with complex care requirements and/ or access and/ or language and/ or cultural diversity, such as Aboriginal patients
- a breakdown in the relationship between the patient and/ or support person and the NSW Health Service
- incidents which occurred elsewhere or patient transfer to another facility or NSW Health Service
- delayed identification of an incident
- issues of clinician accountability or suspected intentional unsafe acts.

3.10. Monitoring and evaluation

NSW Health Services must:

- monitor that clinician disclosure occurs within 24 hours of incident notification and progresses to formal open disclosure as required
- undertake periodic internal auditing of a sample of open disclosure processes, including outcomes of open disclosure

- review cases requiring open disclosure at local clinical review and morbidity and mortality meetings to identify and provide advice on improvements to open disclosure practice
  - support and enable patients and/ or support persons and staff to provide feedback on their experience of open disclosure and contribute to improvement of open disclosure.
